Conversation Cards

Instructions for Use

Simply print out on single-sided paper (preferably cardstock) and cut out (if you want to get crazy, go to Staples or Office Depot and use their free paper cutter). Display ideas? How about a tray you have laying around? Or get an acrylic post it-holder from Dollar Tree.

Whether you're across the dinner table, around the fire pit, curled up in a dorm room, or gathered at a family reunion, these cards are your backstage pass to meaningful, funny, and surprising conversations. Use them to get to know each other better, spark laughter, and build connection—fast.

CHOOSE YOUR VIBE

- Just talking: Take turns answering and let the convo flow.
- Guessing game: One person draws, others guess their answer, then reveal.
- Group challenge: Everyone answers the same card rapid-fire style.

TIPS

- Skip any cards that just don't feel right; if playing game-style, use the wild card rule: one skip allowed - then you're in!
- Let laughter lead!
- Let the youngest or the oldest person start in gatherings
- Play Guess Who - by everyone writing down answers, putting in a bowl and drawing out a card. Whoever guesses right gets a point. Then everyone else shares their answer.
- Game variations:
  - Truth or Twist: Answer truthfully—or make up a believable lie.
  - Card Roulette: Timed challenge to answer as many as you can.
- There are no wrong answers and no pressure.
- These cards help say the things you didn't know how to say—or needed to hear.

What's a trend you love that other people just don't get?

If you could have a superpower to help with
"adulting," what would it be?
(No judgment if it's making coffee appear magically!)

What's your go-to stress reliever when the adulting hits hard?

If your summer had a theme song, what would it be? Bonus:
Sing a line!

What's the best advice you've ever gotten — even if you didn't want to hear it at first? Bonus:
Who gave it?

Describe your perfect
"do nothing" day.
What's on your agenda?
